

« Stalking leftovers | Main | Chelsea Hing encore »

A guest house in Southern Oregon

Posted on Fri, 9 May 2014 by KIM

7 Comments

DeWayne Lumpkin had quite a challenge put upon him. He was given $15,000 to completely furnish this 2800 sq ft guest house in the middle of southern Oregon wine country (it only had beds, a leather sofa and four wooden dining room chairs). The owners, David Gremmels & Cary Bryant who own Rogue Creamery, requested an industrial, agricultural style that could hold up to use by families, friends & even strangers through airbnb (listing here). DeWayne completed the project in 5 weeks and had to purchase EVERYTHING, from dishes, silverware, glassware, linens for bed, bath & kitchen, alarm clocks, hair dryers, etc. ...everything you need to stay and not want to leave. And it's so fantastically vintage/industrial I would absolutely love to rent this place and never leave. (Photos by Nikita Lee)

Search

LEGAL

Switching to Allstate is worth it.